If you have your mind set on dating gorgeous European women then you've probably thought of how to meet them. Perhaps you've come across online dating platforms, thought about the penpal services, seen some Facebook groups, forums and so on? The question is which one of these is the best idea for you. We have put together three ways you can meet the ideal woman on the web or in real life.

The Online Dating World

There are plenty of sites that can help you meet stunning European women. Dating services such as AnastasiaDate.com focus on providing the best possible experience for online dating them. There is a huge database of women from that part of the world who are looking for their ideal partner as well. There are some downsides to online dating as well but if you check the site's anti-scam policy and keep in mind what the red flags are then you will do just fine.

The Penpal Service Option

These have been in existence for some time. They have existed since humans learn to write and there's a reason why it's still around today. There is something incredibly personal and romantic with hand-written letters. You can include photos, add scent to them. It is Shakespearean! Ladies will love it!

Taking a Tour

There are plenty of places that offer specific tours where guys have the opportunity to meet preselected ladies. It works wonderfully – an agency makes all arrangements for you and you don't need to do anything other than just to show up. Tours vary in prices so check your budget and have a go at one of these.

Which one works for you?

People are so different and prefer different options. AnastasiaDate.com can help you with any one of these. The site offers you great dating tips to have success with dating beautiful European women.
